

MARS Trust seeks a Training and Education Development Officer

The Trustees and Staff at the MARS Trust are passionate about young people and our desire is to see them thrive in the ever-changing complex world of relationships. We are looking for an educationalist to take our materials forward. The Trust is based in a christian ethos, so understanding and supporting that ethos is important in this new role.

This Christian based charity trains thousands of secondary school students in the key skills to build healthy relationships. Workshops are currently delivered in Dorset and access to the materials for students has developed over the course of the pandemic. The Trust has ambitious forward plans to expand across the UK, to reach more young people, of different ages, and vulnerable groups. To facilitate this growth, we are currently developing a brand new scenario based learning initiative.

The Trustees have decided that the MARS Trust would now benefit from a Training and Development Officer to work with them in delivering this exciting opportunity. We are looking for someone with educational qualification and experience with young people, with a keen interest in relationship and wellbeing skills. It is vital that the person has a heart for young people to reach their potential. As a small charity, the role will be varied, and require collaboration and teamwork. Initially the role will be for 8 hours a week with flexible working. The closing date for applications is Friday 14th January 2022 at 5 pm.
